Week Commencing: 13.12.21

I can't believe we only have one more week before the end of term! The Autumn has whizzed past! We are all looking forward to safely celebrating the festive season next week with a range of activities.

Just to politely remind you that there will be no admittance to the Christmas concerts without tickets that should have been booked with the office this week. Please don't put us in the position of having to turn you away!

We have also seen an increase in quite poorly, (non covid), pupils at school over the past couple of weeks. Like us all, when poorly we often want our family and some TLC. Please make sure your child is well enough for school before sending them in—particularly in this current climate. Thank you for your cooperation.
